Kingery worked as an Urban and Environmental Planner for more than 37 years. After his retirement in 2012, Kingery started taking watercolor classes taught by Kate Fitzsimmons and joined the San Diego Watercolor Society, hoping to learn from its many experienced members.

That was a good move, and he later was elected SDWS President. Three of his paintings were accepted into the SDWS International Shows, and other works have been accepted into the Western Federation of Watercolor Societies shows in Eugene OR, and Albuquerque NM.

Ralph joined Foothills Art Association in mid-2024 and recently showed two works in the summer 2024 "Octo" show.

His website, at depicts his current artistic interests with images of more than 150 of his paintings, and it allows for easy sale of prints of his art.
